

ARE YOU TRYING TO WIN THAT FINE HOME?

Go Look at It, Then You'll Want to Own It, Just a Little Work Is All There Is to It.

DON'T STAY OUT OF THE CONTEST

You'll Be in the Race Soon, Anyway, We'd Like to See You Get in Now.

You who have not entered in The Washington Herald's great voting contest, don't you think it high time you began to figure on winning that splendid $3,500 home? Ask yourself this question: We know what the answer will be, and congratulate you upon your good judgment. But why are you waiting? Think! Afraid you can't win? You shouldn't be. Others are trying, and you have as good a chance as they. Don't be afraid you can't win. You will laugh at your fears when you have tried and have found out how easy it is to secure subscriptions. Subscriptions mean votes—and votes mean a prize for you. Now, can you think of one single reason why you should not try? Don't do yourself the injustice of staying out of this contest. It may mean that home you have been wanting so long.

And you should enter at once. Begin while the contest is yet in its infancy. Anything that is worth doing is worth doing now. Of course, you want this home—and it's yours with a little effort. We make you the proposition and invite you to seize the glorious opportunity.

Why don't you go and take a look at it? To be sure, it is not finished yet, but it soon will be. Besides, the location is an all important feature, one with which you should acquaint yourself. When you have done this, you will be more anxious than ever to have the home for your very own. You're not paying for it, you know. You're getting it absolutely free of any cost to you.

This is not a raffle—not a game of chance, at all. You simply want to secure the largest number of votes cast for any one candidate in this contest. Then, at the close, on July 3, 1909, we will be most happy to turn over to you this home, with all the delights attendant upon its possession.

It should not require a great deal of argument to convince you of the pleasure of living in your own home. You are, no doubt, as well acquainted with it as we. What we are trying to do is to interest you in this contest, to the end that you may realize what may be your pet ambition.

Are you thoroughly acquainted with the proposition we are making you? In the event that you are not, we will be very glad to inform you upon any of the particulars you may not understand.

We would not have you forget that there are seventy-six other prizes aside from the home. Acquaint yourself with them and with the details of the proposition. We think you'll decide to get into the race.

Distribution of Prizes.

There are eighteen districts in this contest; eleven districts in the city and seven on the outside.

The grand capital prize, a $5,850 house and lot, will be awarded to the contestant who secures the largest number of votes in the entire contest, regardless of district limitations.

The second grand prize, a White Steamer automobile, will be awarded to the contestant receiving the second largest number of votes in the entire contest.

The Columbia electric victoria will be awarded to the contestant receiving the third largest number of votes in the entire contest.

A building lot, valued at $1,000, will be awarded to the contestant receiving the fourth largest number of votes in the entire contest.

The fifth grand prize, a European tour, will be awarded to the contestant receiving the fifth largest number of votes in the entire contest. The contestant winning this prize will be privileged to select a friend to accompany her on this European tour.

The district prizes will be awarded to the contestants receiving the first, second, third, and fourth largest number of votes in their district, regardless of the number of votes cast in other districts. Remember that the contest is open to all who are not confined to any one district in his particular district, but can secure them in any place in the United States.

How to Win.

Any residents in the eighteen districts mentioned in our full page announcement, who desire to enter this great contest and win one of the magnificent awards offered, should at once see that their names are sent to the contest manager. All that is necessary to win is to receive the largest number of votes, according to the conditions mentioned elsewhere in this issue of The Washington Herald.

Candidates should at once interest their friends in the contest and by their united efforts induce as many people as possible to vote for them. The first nominations sent in for a candidate will count one thousand (1,000) votes. Nomination blanks can be cut from The Washington Herald or they can be secured from the contest manager.

Easy Way to Win.

The easiest and quickest way for a candidate to win is to ask your friends to prepay their subscriptions for from six to twenty-four months. It costs the subscriber nothing extra to do this, and he is saved the annoyance of weekly and monthly collections. By so doing you receive a special vote coupon, as per schedule printed elsewhere.

Orders for the prizes will be given the successful candidates at the close of the contest; same may be used by the candidates themselves or disposed of in any manner they may see fit.

Any one who desires to vote in this contest may do so by ballots cut from The Washington Herald or by special vote coupons obtained by subscribing to The Washington Herald. All ballots cut from The Washington Herald must be voted before the date printed thereon. If voted later, they will not be counted.

Persons living in one district are not confined to voting for candidates in their own particular district, but may vote for any one in the race.

Should you be in doubt as to the condition on which the awards are given, or desire any information regarding the contest, do not hesitate to write or call on the contest manager of The Washington Herald, where all information desired will be cheerfully offered.

Instructions for Voting.

Enter the name of the candidate whom you wish to secure one of these magnificent rewards in this contest at once.

He may win one of the grand awards or one of the district awards with but little effort. Those who get in on the start have the best chance of winning; so it is desirable that the names be entered at once in order to get a good start. Candidates who enter this contest do not necessarily have to be subscribers of The Washington Herald. Enter your name and your friends will do the rest. You will be surprised to see how many of the private friends of yours who will little effort is necessary to win one of the rewards offered. Get in on the start and encourage your friends to vote for you. The rest will be easy. You will never know how popular you are until you enter a contest of this kind.

NAVY MACHINISTS LET OUT TO-DAY

ists seem determined to fight against further reductions, as well as to battle for the reinstatement of those men who are to be let out. Before to-day is over many of the discharged men will have seen their representatives in Congress, and in short time the Navy Department and army officials will be deluged with requests to reinstate different individuals.

Aided by the Protesters.

Last summer many machinists were discharged from the yard, but the protesters were so many and strong, that the officials of the department yielded, and reinstated the men. The recollection of their success on this occasion is partially responsible for the tenacity of the men in the present struggle.

Some bitterness has been aroused against the private business to which much of the government's business has been let out on contract. The men say this is really the cause of the present discharges. At nearly every meeting of the machinists speeches are made in which the men attempt to point out the superiority in workmanship and the greater economy of the naval vessels and armament that are built in government establishments over those that are furnished by contract.

Every possible means are adopted to try to induce the government to build its own ships and make its own guns.

BURIAL OF DR. PERCY.

Funeral Services Will Be Held from Navy Yard To-morrow.

Funeral services for Medical Inspector Henry T. Percy, who died at the Naval Medical School Hospital yesterday, will probably be held to-morrow from his residence at the navy yard. Attended with full military honors, the interment will take place at Arlington Cemetery.

Death resulted from uraemia, contracted from kidney disease. He had been ill but a few months.

Dr. Percy was in charge of the dispensary at the Washington establishment, and during his two years at that post he maintained a first-aid-to-the-injured hospital, where the workmen were treated.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Florence Percy.

Born in Roanoke, Va., March 28, 1849, Dr. Percy entered the naval service on March 21, 1874, and was appointed an assistant surgeon on June 29, 1879. During the Spanish-American war he was attached to the United States steamship Charleston, and later was assigned to the Olympia and the Norfolk Navy Yard. He was promoted to medical inspector with the rank of commander, on September 1, 1908.

CADETS WILL GIVE PARADE.

High School Organization to Be Seen with Philippine Band.

There was rejoicing among the boys and girls of the high schools yesterday when it was announced that arrangements had been practically completed for the Cadet Regiment to parade some time next week with the Philippine Constabulary Band.

After conferring with Gen. Edwards, of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, Capt. James F. Oyster, president of the board of education, learned that the band would have to rest this week, after its tour, but that the War Department was quite willing it should head the Cadet Regiment in a parade through the principal streets of the city some time next week. Details for the parade have not yet been completed, but the cadet officers are making active preparations for it.

JAPAN TO SEND CRUISERS.

Master of Entertaining Crews Bothers the Department.

The Japanese cruisers Aso and Ijichi will visit San Francisco about April 25, according to advices received at the Navy Department. The cruisers are being utilized for training purposes, and carry 180 cadets. They are under the command of Admiral Ijichi.

Entertainment of the Japanese visitors is a serious problem. The Navy Department has no special entertainment fund, and the only thing that can be done is to take a small amount from the contingent fund. A certain sum has been set aside for the purpose by Secretary Meyer, but it is not enough to give the Japanese sailors nearly as elaborate entertainment as the Japanese gave to the sailors of the battle-ship fleet. After San Francisco the cruisers will go to Seattle.

SCIENTIST SLAIN IN ORIENT

Dr. William Jones, Formerly of Washington, Victim of Murder.

Ethnologist Well Known in This City by Investigations for Carnegie Institution.

News of the murder of Dr. William Jones in the Philippines was received in this city yesterday. The young anthropologist was well known in Washington, having been engaged by the Carnegie Institution in ethnological investigations shortly after his graduation from Columbia University.

He was sent to the island possessions about three years ago by the Field Museum of Natural History of Chicago. In the opinion of the Carnegie Institution directors, Dr. Jones was unsurpassed as a psychologist, and his accomplishments in unraveling mysteries of Indian religion were recalled when the news of his death was received.

Prof. James Mooney, of the Bureau of Ethnology, said last night he regarded Dr. Jones as one of the most promising of the younger ethnologists, and that his loss would be felt to the scientific world.

He was graduated from Harvard University in 1890, and had established a record at that institution as one of the ablest short story writers ever turned out at Cambridge.

The murder is said to have been committed at Dumabato, P. I., which is near the headquarters of the Cayanag River, where Dr. Jones had been living and studying for a year. The crime is believed to have been committed by wild Igorots.

ART IN ADVERTISING.

Prominent Illustrator Engaged by "Man's Store" of Washington.

To all lovers of good pictures the name of Alonzo Kimball is well known. He is one of the most successful, as well as one of the most prominent, of American illustrators. A regular contributor to the leading magazines and other high-class publications, almost everybody has seen and been charmed by his work. As Gibson and Christy have made their fond nine types famous, so Kimball has achieved fame in portraying and delineating men. He creates strong types of unique character and individuality, and excels especially in the accuracy with which he details styles and dress.

It is a matter of more than passing interest to know that Artist Kimball's talent is to be displayed by a wide-awake and discriminating business establishment in Washington. By special arrangement the Man's Store, D. J. Kaufman, proprietor, has secured the services of this seasonable, unassuming and accomplished artist. Such a feature is sure to attract general attention, and prove highly attractive. The first specimen of his work in this connection appears to-day, and further illustrations will be forthcoming from time to time.

Dr. Hannis Taylor's Latest Work Receives Recognition in France.

Dr. Hannis Taylor, former Minister to Spain, yesterday received notice from the Institute of France that in a public meeting on March 13 of the Academie des Sciences Morales et Politiques, his latest work, "Science of Jurisprudence," was presented by M. Rodolphe Darestre, one of the oldest members of the Institute and most famous living writer on historical jurisprudence in France.

The fame of his works is world-wide. Such recognition from the Institute through M. Darestre is the highest France can give. The tributes heretofore recorded from Dr. Rodolph Sohm and Dr. von L. Mitters, the most famous Romanists of Germany, brought to Mr. Taylor the highest assurances that country could give.

Upon being apprised of the action of the French Institute the Ambassador here extended his cordial congratulations to Dr. Taylor.

ALLEGED SLAYER ON TRIAL.

Panel Exhausted in Case of Black Accused of Wife's Murder.

Charged with murder in the first degree in connection with the death of his wife, Marie, Arthur Martin, a negro, formerly a printer in the Government Printing Office, was yesterday arraigned in Criminal Court No. 1, before Justice Gould. The panel of jurors was exhausted without completing the jury. Fifty more talents were ordered, and adjournment was taken until this morning.

Martin is charged with shooting his wife in the abdomen at 742 Howard avenue, Anacostia, next door to their home, on May 30 last. She died in Casualty Hospital June 25 following.

GRISWOLD FUNERAL PLANS.

Body Will Be Sent to Connecticut for Burial.

Funeral services for Henry A. Griswold, prominent resident of Anacostia, who committed suicide Tuesday afternoon by shooting himself in the left chest with a shotgun, will be held Saturday afternoon in Weathersfield, Conn., his boyhood home. The body will be interred in the village cemetery. Pallbearers will be chosen from among old friends.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Griswold home in Mount View, where Griswold ended his life. Only members of the family will be present. The body will leave Washington to-morrow morning on a train for Weathersfield, accompanied by the widow.

Griswold was a communicant of the Episcopal Church, member of De Molay Commandery, K. T., and charter member of Naval Lodge, F. A. and A. M.

JAPAN'S ADMIRAL COMING.

Sotokichi Uru to Be Guest of Annapolis Class of '81.

Vice Admiral Sotokichi Uru, of the Japanese Imperial navy, will be the chief guest at the annual banquet of the class of '81 of the Annapolis Naval Academy, to be held here on June 2.

The Japanese vice admiral was a member of the graduating class, and his classmates promise him a rousing reception. Throughout the Russo-Japanese war, Vice Admiral Sotokichi Uru served as a flag officer and won world-wide fame in several Japanese naval victories. He will attend the graduation dinner at Annapolis on the following day and the graduation exercises on June 4. Librarian Stewart, of the Navy Department, secretary of the class of '81, in notifying his classmates of the honor, said:

"As Vice Admiral Sotokichi Uru will come as the chief officer of a great and friendly nation, we owe to our guest, to our country, and to our class to give him a rousing welcome and to make as good a showing of numbers present as possible."

DEATHS IN THE DISTRICT.

Pneumonia Heads the List of Causes in Health Report.

More deaths were caused in the District last week by pneumonia than by any other disease, according to the weekly mortality statement of the health office, issued yesterday. The total number of deaths from this disease were twenty-one.

The total number of deaths reported were 121, of which 81 were whites and 40 negroes. The total number of deaths were 121, of which 81 were whites and 40 negroes. There was a decline in the number of diphtheria cases reported, and a slight increase in the number of typhoid cases. Statistics show a decrease in the epidemic of measles.

FAIR TEACHERS INVADE CITY

Twenty-five School Ma'ams of Cleveland on Visit of Week.

Bubbling over with happiness and good nature, twenty-five fair school ma'ams hailing from Cleveland, Ohio, have invaded Washington prepared to take in every sight from Mount Vernon to bobby of the White House lawn. The party, which arrived Sunday from the City by the Lake, is staying at the Hotel Drexel.

Since they have been in the Capital these inculcators of things educational have been making the most of their time. Yesterday they invaded Annapolis in force, and some of the more communicative—not necessarily less lucky, but it is understood of the party whispered to a reporter for The Washington Herald last evening that there were a few Cleveland hearts abandoned at the Naval Academy.

The party journeyed to Annapolis on a special train of the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis electric line.

"It is our intention to remain in Washington for the rest of the week," said Miss Bessie Hope, spokeswoman for the party, "and we mean to see everything worth the while. We have been having the most sort of a time."

"The midshipmen? Yes, indeed, they are a fine lot of boys. We reached Annapolis just in time to see them play a game of baseball with the Maryland Agricultural College, and they beat them all hollow. We saw them at their fencing drills, too, and some of the boys were practicing sighting the big cannons, like on real battle ships. It was all very exciting, and they all stand so erect, and look very fascinating in their blue uniforms."

"Of course, President Taft is going to receive you at the White House, since you are from Ohio," suggested the reporter.

"Well, we hope so, but the invitation hasn't come yet," she laughed.

The young women teachers in the Clark, Huck, Central, Rocky, River, Fowler, and Case schools of Cleveland, and came to Washington to spend their Easter vacation. Of course, there are a few men with them, but they do not count. The party is in charge of W. D. Buss, of the Pennsylvania Lines.

He and G. H. Gall, general passenger agent of the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Railway escorted them to Annapolis yesterday afternoon.

Those in the party are Misses Beadles, Graf, Hessler, Walker, Dean, Greutvedinger, Wright, Dorence, Hope, Reddy, Rander, Cushing, Gates, Trostle, Miller, Kelly, Janicki, Gayer, Shilrick, Cornell, Lowe, Green, Leonard, Storey, John, Nahloosky, Schule, and Whelan; Messrs. Hessler, Cleveland, and Miller, and Messrs. Mervin Walker, W. H. Labrit, K. Ramaley, W. J. Luck, W. D. Buss, and L. H. Hayden.

JAMES HENRY SMITH ANNIHILATES FOOD

Stows Away Culinary Department of Hotel.

THEN OPINES HE IS HUNGRY

After Surrounding Two Acute Indigestion Menus and Thirteen Glasses of Beer, He Offers to Tackle Another Layout for Price, but is Left Alone with His Glory.

James Henry Smith, of Providence, R. I., blew into Washington yesterday with his appetite. That he didn't blow up later is due, his friends are convinced, to a rubberoid annex to his stomach.

James Henry's storage capacity would be the envy of the greediest cannibal that ever undertook to chew his way to the outside of the animated cargo of a missionary ship. Yesterday afternoon James Henry started in to take aboard a real meal. When he had pushed away the last empty plate he had circumscribed this menu:

Seven large mackerels.
Nearly a whole joint of lamb.
Six slices of vegetables.
Eight slices of bread (man, not restaurant, size).
Three slices of mince pie.

Nor Was He Pie-eyed.

When the piece of mince pie had safely passed the last semaphore of James Henry's esophagus, the Providence man's audience was quite convinced James Henry soon would be pie-eyed, so to speak, but they reckoned without James Henry. Just one hour later that individual opined that he felt in dire need of something to eat. Then he attacked this layout:

Six orders of ham and eggs.
Eight slices of bread.
Two cups of coffee.
One glass of beer.

In addition to this outlay, James Henry stowed away twelve glasses of beer between courses, and then wanted to tackle the champion eater of Washington for a contest to the death. He even offered to eat the check presented by the waiter, but was restrained.

Wants an Early Contest.

James Henry can eat 100 scrambled eggs. At least, he says he can, and is willing to demonstrate his ability in that line against Washington's best eater.

James Henry has had many blows for fame. He says that he can handle a canoe to perfection, and that he was for years a model jockey in the navy. He avers he is the only white man who has ever raced a twenty-five-foot canoe with 125 feet of canvas spread. But he considers this as nothing compared to his appetite.

Yesterday afternoon James Henry was boasting to friends in Taylor's hotel, where he is stopping, of his ability to eat all the eggs in the house. He said he was the champion eater of seventeen States, and declared that when he was in the United States navy he was repeatedly transferred from one ship to another because he threatened a famine on board.

James Henry challenged every one in the hotel to eat against him, and, finding no takers, offered to eat against time.

Eats Against Time.

James Henry sat down to dinner at 12:30 o'clock. He ate the mackerel and then made away with several large chunks of roast lamb. Then he pitched into the vegetables and the bread. He devoured these, and then annihilated the mince pie.

Taking a stroll after this hearty meal, James Henry met a friend and while talking over old times in the navy drank twelve glasses of beer.

After putting away the liquid refreshment, James Henry again boasted of his appetite, and declared he could eat six orders of ham and eggs with bread inside of ten minutes. Several trailing men in the hotel took him up, and offered to pay for the food if he made good his boast.

Six orders of ham and eggs, the ham in large slices, and the eggs, two in number to each order, fried, were set before James Henry. In seven minutes he had eaten the whole eight slices of bread, besides drinking two cups of coffee and a glass of beer. He then declared himself ready to repeat the performance if other hotel guests would face the bills. But they had had enough, and left James Henry to his glory.

Still Among the Living.

James Henry is not yet in the hospital, and when seen last night declared he never felt better, except that he was a little hungry. He said his only grievance was that the proprietors of Taylor's Hotel failed to see how they could keep him as a guest and still make money, and had asked him to seek another boarding house.

James Henry hinted to the reporter that he would like a few pounds of steak, but the scribe, having in mind a 15-cent repeat at "The Dirty Spoon," faded into the night, his mind occupied with the vision of eggs, and more eggs, and ham, and then more ham.
